

AI Attitudes by Region

AI attitudes vary by country.

The 2025 Ipsos survey shows English-speaking countries express anxiety regarding AI, despite their leading role in AI model development and training.

In contrast, Emerging Markets display the opposite: vastly more “accelerationist” attitudes especially in Asia and Latin America.

This disparity points to a paradox – developed regions fear AI and see fewer gains from it than developing regions.

To learn more, contact Global Delta Capital at info@globaldeltacapital.com.